

ERIH ITALIA Meeting - 19 Aprile 2024

Parco dell'Innovazione – Capannone 19 – Tecnopolo
Piazzale Europa 1 – 42121 Reggio Emilia

The annual meeting of ERIH Italia will take place on 19 April at the Officine Meccaniche Reggiane. The theme on which participants are invited to report is the impetus that the tourist exploitation and regeneration of industrial heritage has given and can give to urban and regional development. The relationship between heritage and local development is not new. However, revitalised by the challenges of the green transition and climate change, it continues to be high on the agenda of recent ERIH General Conferences. The 2023 conference in Bilbao showcased experiences of industrial heritage reuse inspired by the principles of the New European Bauhaus for the regeneration of local communities, including through small-scale projects. The next General Conference in Lodz in 2024 will focus on the regeneration of the post-industrial landscape through the recovery of industrial heritage.

The Reggio Emilia meeting is therefore intended as a preview of the topics that will be discussed at the ERIH General Conference in October next year. In this context, the choice to hold the National Meeting in the Innovation Park within the former Officine Meccaniche Reggiane is not accidental. There are several reasons for this decision: firstly, the historical value of the area, one of the main centres of Italian industry in the last century, and secondly, the impressive structural interventions that have allowed the rebirth of a vast area that had long been forgotten. The ambitious redevelopment, which is still ongoing, has triggered urban regeneration processes that have attracted numerous private actors, research organisations, educational institutions, advanced services and cultural and creative entrepreneurs.

At the same time, the "Reggiane", as the Officine Meccaniche (Mechanical Workshops) are affectionately known, have been at the centre of a long process of re-reading and public restitution, thanks to the vast amount of archival material that they are fortunate enough to possess, an exemplary cultural process that has allowed all citizens to consciously participate in the recovery of memory. Regeneration and participation will therefore be the themes of the discussions in which you are all invited to participate, preferably in person (although online participation is also envisaged). The outline programme for now is as follows:
